Listing of Claims:

Claims 1-40 (Cancelled)

41. (Original) A method for positioning a die on a substrate, the method comprising the steps of:

providing a cornercube offset tool below a vision plane of the substrate, the cornercube offset tool having three internal reflection surfaces; viewing an indirect image of the die through the cornercube offset tool; identifying a feature located on a bottom surface of the die based on the indirect image; and placing the die on the substrate based on the identified feature.

42. (Original) A method for positioning a die on a substrate, the method comprising the steps of:

positioning a plurality of cornercube offset tools below a vision plane of the substrate; positioning a first lens between each of the plurality of cornercube offset tools and the die; positioning a second lens between each of the plurality of cornercube offset tools and an optical input device; and viewing a surface of the die through the first lens, the cornercube offset tool, and the second lens.

43. (Original) A method for use with a bonding machine to place a die on a substrate, the method comprising the steps of:

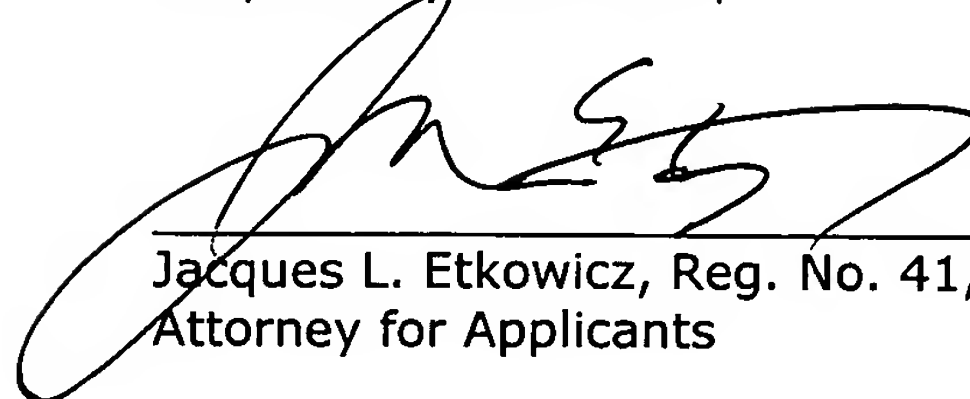

positioning a cornercube offset tool below a vision plane of the bonding machine; positioning a lens between i) the vision plane and the cornercube offset tool and ii) between an optical input device and the cornercube offset tool; viewing a portion of a bottom surface of the die through the cornercube offset tool and the lens; and placing the die on the substrate based on the viewed portion of the die.

Respectfully submitted,
